News of Petersburg

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,
6 Bollingbrook Street,
Petersburg 1435.
Petersburg, Va., April 16.

The Petersburg Education Association, Paul Pettit, president, met in annual session last night in the auditorium of the R. E. Lee School, and the proceedings were of interest. Dr. L. T. Roster, of Norfolk, representing the State Board of Health, delivered an address favoring medical inspection in the public schools, a system which prevails in several of the cities of the State, but not in Petersburg. The address was both instructive and entertaining and will doubtless bear fruit.

After the address the association proceeded to business and elected officers for the ensuing year as follows: President, Paul Pettit; vice-presidents—first, R. Bolling Wilcox; second, Mrs. W. Pryor Jones; third, G. Cleveland Wright; fourth, Mrs. Edward Elmsbury; fifth, Dr. Frank H. Woodstock; sixth, Mrs. Jennie Moon; corresponding secretary, Miss Virginia McKenney; recording secretary, Miss Alma Booth; treasurer, R. S. Richardson.

Reports of the officers showed much work done during the year towards the betterment of civic and intellectual conditions. The association has given the public during the past season the benefit of a series of very fine lectures, delivered by professors of the University of Virginia.

GRAVE OF GENERAL PHILLIPS.
Members D. A. R. Make Effort to Find Its Location.

An effort is being made by Frances Bland Randolph, chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, of this city, to find the grave of the British General Phillips, who died in the East Hill residence, in Petersburg, in 1751, while the city was held by the British troops. Tradition says the body was buried in Blanford Cemetery, in the corner of the consecrated ground very near the church, and there seems no doubt of this, but the location of the grave, the lapse of years has long been lost to view. Some years ago, at the request of British people interested in the matter, an effort was made to find the remains of General Phillips, but without satisfactory result. With the view of making further search, the Daughters of the Revolution have made request of the cemetery committee to be allowed to open certain graves, with the hope that the resting place of the British general may be definitely established. No doubt, if the grave is found, there will be some relics in it to identify the remains.

BIDS OVER APPROPRIATION.
Contract for Erection of Almshouse Is Not Awarded.

Under the provisions of the recent bid issue, the Common Council appropriated the sum of $15,000 for the building and equipment of a new almshouse. The Public Improvement Committee, at its meeting last evening, considered the matter of awarding the contract for the construction of the almshouse, but found that the bids submitted were all in excess of the appropriation. The Council will be asked to increase the appropriation.

WEDDED IN NORFOLK.
Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tucker Notified of Son's Marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Tucker, of this city, were notified by telegram yesterday afternoon of the marriage of their son, Roper Davis Tucker, formerly of Petersburg, and Miss Vera Montague Harward. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Carrie Harward, in Norfolk, by the Rev. Charles M. Watson. The bridegroom is well-known here, where he was formerly engaged in business. For the past several years he has made his home in Newport News, where he is employed as draftsman by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company.

THE POSTMASTERSHIP.
No Word Yet Received From Congressman Watson.

No word from Congressman Walter A. Watson as to whom he will recommend for the Petersburg postmaster position. He was expected the first of the week to probably announce his decision, but circumstances seem to have come until the next of next week. There may be no necessity of any action in the matter, as it will be a year before Postmaster Bolling's term expires, but the four candidates and the people would be relieved to know upon whom the choice is to fall.

REFUSES TO INTERFERE.
Divulgence Board Will Keep Hands Off in School Fight.

The school board of Wm. D. District, in Dinwiddie, some time ago decided to build a high school at Carson, on the border of Prince George. The contract was let and the work of building began. A number of the citizens of the district, however, protested the high school, on the ground of insufficient patronage to maintain it. The matter was brought before the Dinwiddie school board this week, with both sides represented by counsel. The electoral board decided not to interfere.

TO SAVE HISTORY OF CONVENTION
Descendants of Men Who Passed Secession Act Urged to Organize Society.

The fifty-second anniversary of the passage of the Virginia Ordinance of Secession, which falls on April 17, will be made the occasion for the inauguration of a movement to organize the sons and descendants of members of that historic convention into a permanent society. This idea is being advanced by Sterling Boisseau, son of the late Judge James Boisseau, who represented Dinwiddie County in the convention of 1861. Mr. Boisseau, who is now living in Richmond, has compiled a list of sons and grandsons of members of the Secession Convention.

Among those in Richmond who can boast father or grandfather in the convention are: John P. Branch, Sterling Boisseau, Edwin P. Cox, Eppa Hunton, Jr., Lewis E. Harvie, John S. Harvie, Lancaster K. Harvie, A. J. Montague, R. L. Montague, William Henry White, Henry T. Wickham, L. W. Wise. These and other lineal descendants of the members of the convention of 1861 will be asked to cooperate in the work of starting such a society. Its object, Mr. Boisseau says, is to preserve the history of the convention and to prepare biographies of its delegates.

The convention of 1861 met in the Capitol at Richmond on February 17 in response to an act of the General Assembly, passed January 14, 1861. After twelve months later, on December 6, 1861, after the passage of the secession ordinance, the convention adjourned sine die.

After refusing a secession resolution on April 4, the convention passed the celebrated ordinance, "Presuming the powers delegated to that position by the Federal Government, by a vote of 88 to 55. The delegates from Richmond—William H. Macfarland, Marmaduke Johnson and George W. Randolph—all voted for the secession act. This ballot was afterwards changed by permission to read 100 to 55.

Major-General Robert W. Lee was presented to the convention on April 23 as commander of the military and naval forces of the State of Virginia, having been appointed to that position by Governor Letcher on the preceding day. Joseph E. Johnston, afterward major-general of the Confederate Army, was confirmed by the convention on May 1 in his appointment as Brigadier-General of the Provisional Army of Virginia.

The anniversary of the passage of the famous act of secession has been chosen as the date for the annual meeting of the R. E. Lee Camp, No. 1, Sons of Confederate Veterans, which will be held in the Business Men's Club to-night.

NEIL C. SILLSON EIGHTY-DAY TOUR

In each of these cities Mr. Sills will make an address in the interests of the national association. The first of the series was delivered last night at Raleigh, N. C.

While on the trip Mr. Sills will speak in the following cities: Raleigh, N. C.; Columbia, S. C.; Atlanta and Savannah, Ga.; Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, Ala.; Jacksonville, Fla.; Jackson, Miss.; New Orleans, La.; Memphis, Nashville and Knoxville, Tenn.; Little Rock and Fort Smith, Ark.; Oklahoma City, Okla.; Wichita, Kan.; Denver, Colo.; Albuquerque, N. His first real rest will come May 15, when he jumps from Los Angeles to San Francisco for a week, and then over to Portland, Ore., for the same length of time. From June 12 to 30 he will give a talk daily. In that time he will speak in ten States. Mr. Sills returns home on the morning of July 5.
